Newtown "Mib" Ace Loses to Hulmeville Lad

"Winnie" Hofmeister, Newtown's ace of the marble ring, who last year won his spurs as champion of the Eastern Metropolitan District and took a try at the National crown was eliminated at the district meet on Wednesday afternoon at Morrisville.

The former county champion made a gallant stand in his fight with Harold Benner, representative of the Hulmeville school, taking the first game, losing the second and with the score standing six to six in the third frame he hit the seventh and deciding mib but with insufficient force to knock it from the ring. His opponent promptly gathered in the set up and "Winnie" was eliminated.

Benner thus becomes the district champion and will compete with other district champions at Newtown to represent the lower half of the county at Doylestown when a county champion will be found.

SPRING SOCIAL MEETING HELD BY TRAVEL CLUB

Delightful Program of Music and One-Act Play
Given

SOCIAL TIME ENJOYED

Musical numbers of merit, a one-act play in which the well-learned tear of the female cast was transmitted to the audience, and an enjoyable social period, marked the program of the Travel Club last evening, presented under direction of the club dramatic, music and social committees.

The program was given in St. James's parish house; across the front of which had been banked sweet-scented spring blossoms. Bouquets of vari-colored blooms made an attractive setting for the delightful numbers of the club, welcomed the assemblage.

The musical selections included: Piano solo, "Sextet from Lucia," Miss Ida Phipps; vocal quartet selection, "Sunshine in Rainbow Valley" (Hamblen), Mrs. John Moyer, Mrs. Charles I. Bowen, Mrs. Linton Martin and Miss Grace Shaver; piano solo, "Impromptu" (Schubert), Mrs. Marburg D. Weagley; "In the Time of Roses" (Reichardt), selection by the club quartet. Mrs. Weagley was accompanist for the quartet numbers.

A reading, "The Highwayman" (Noyes) by Miss Phipps was presented in an exceptionally clever manner, and was thoroughly enjoyed by the club women and their friends.

The play "Down Fido" was participated in by eight individuals, members of the Travel Club and of the Junior group. The cast: Bud, Mrs. Bradley Ardrey; Fron, Mrs. Parke Wetherill; Midge, Miss Louise Lawrence; Rachel, Miss Elizabeth Leibfried; Babe, Miss Winifred Tracy; Coddles, Mrs. Roy Tracy; Mrs. Hobbs, Miss Helen Taylor; Peg, Mrs. Theodore B. Megargee.

The scene of "Down Fido" was in the room of a mountain cabin, owned by the father of one of the group of young women. The experiences, or imagined experiences of the group of eight who found themselves unprotected with an escaped convict at large in the section, were blood-thrilling to say the least. Each noise brought well-acted dread and trembling to the girls, and spine-tugging sensations in turn to the audience.

Refreshments were served at the conclusions of the final number.

The hostesses of the evening were Mrs. Armand V. Morris and Mrs. Thomas G. Hawkes.

Two Interesting Talks
Heard by Rotarians

Two very interesting and instructive talks on "Accident Prevention" were given at the weekly meeting of the Bristol Rotary Club yesterday afternoon. The speakers were: Captain S. M. Black and Clinton Oblinger, both of the Pennsylvania Department of Labor and Industry.

Both speakers called attention to the vast number of accidents occurring in industry, in the homes and on the highways. They told of the work which the State is doing, through a campaign of education, to reduce accidents and of the results which are being accomplished.

"Industry today is safer than in the home," said Captain Black, so far as the number of accidents go. He explained some of the causes of accidents in the home.

Mr. Oblinger spoke of the number of deaths due to accidents in 18 months exceeding the number of men in the A. E. F. who were killed in France during the war, in the same period of time.

Both men pledged the fullest cooperation of their department to those who desire it.

ATTENDED BALL GAME

RETURNED HOME

Two States May Fight For Part of Dorrance Tax

Pennsylvania's claim of a right to levy taxes upon the huge estate left by John T. Dorrance, principle owner of the Campbell Soup Company of Camden, on the ground that he died a resident of that State, is accepted as forecasting a legal battle between New Jersey and Pennsylvania. One of the strong points believed to be in New Jersey's favor is that Dorrance claimed this State as his voting residence.

Although expecting a tax yield estimated at from $15,000,000 upward from the estate, neither the legislative appropriations committee nor State officials are banking upon this money to meet obligations incurred in the current appropriations bill or otherwise. Irrespective of the result of the threatened litigation officials realize it may be a long time before New Jersey actually receives any cash from the estate.

SCHOOL SAFETY PATROLS ARE NOW VITAL FACTOR

Organized Safeguarding of Children From Accidents
Being Practiced

OTHER SCHOOL NEWS

Members of the safety patrols located at the Wood street and Jefferson avenue school buildings have received their belts and arm bands from Superintendent of Public Safety James L. McGee, and are now a most vital factor in safety measures of these two school buildings.

There are approximately 15 boys in each group, and each school has selected its own colors for bands and belts, the latter being of the "Sam Brown" style. The arm bands bear the wording: "Bristol Public School Patrol."

The pupils in the patrols are assisting much in safety work, their presence and watchfulness of the trend of traffic probably meaning a great saving in the line of accidents to the scholars. They are in the building and at the street intersections near the school houses, ready to signal the pupils when it is safe to make crossings.

Patrols are also being organized in the Harriman, Bath street and Washington street buildings. Members have already been chosen at the Harriman school.

Representatives of state college state that members of the industrial workers' classes conducted at nights during the winter months at Wood street school, have requested that similar classes be continued next winter, more advanced work in the same subjects being taught.

It is stated that the classes which concluded two weeks ago showed a goodly increase over the number enrolled last year.

Another of the period office tests, given in the Bristol public schools every two months, will be staged starting on Monday, May 4th. Tests will be given in all of the grade buildings.

GRAB IT—HOLD IT

A great many of our readers know Dick, only that is not his real name. He is a bright-eyed youngster who plays hard every day.

A few days ago we watched him and his playmates having a game of baseball. The score at the time we stopped to look is an unimportant detail. Dick's eyes were never off the rapidly moving sphere. Suddenly a hard and fast fly was batted to his field. Out in this field was a great puddle of muddy water, left by a recent rain, and the ball went straight for that puddle. And Dick went straight for the ball. Perhaps he saw the puddle—at least he knew it was there—but his eyes were on the ball. As the ball shot for the ground Dick leaped into the air, caught the ball, and—splash! he went flat in the dirty hole. But the hand that had nailed the fly never touched the ground. He waded out, covered with mud and soaked to the hide, two facts of which he seemed unaware, because he had caught the fly—and had held it.

Some boys would have started for the ball and stopped at the edge of the puddle. Some others would have lost it when they fell. Dick held on.

That particular ball game soon will be a forgotten affair, or at the best only a memory. But we can picture Dick when he gets into the real game of life, as being classed among the star players. He will not look for the little unpleasant things but will hurl himself at the ball and hold on for dear life. He may fall in the mud—he may even have to be fished out—but when he comes to the top, in his hand you will see the ball.

One great affliction of so many of us is the tendency to first look for the puddle instead of the ball. And by the time we have figured out every little chance against a successful catch, the ball is gone.

Don't fumble it—hold it.

PRIVATE ENTERPRISE WINS

Agitation for government ownership of public utilities raises the question whether they would extend and improve their service as rapidly as they do under private ownership with its almost unlimited capital resources and the prospects of increased profits with every expansion. For example, would rural electrification proceed as rapidly if all power plants serving municipalities were municipally owned?

The air mail may be answering this question. Government subsidies are responsible for the rapid development of commercial aviation in the United States as elsewhere. The latest marvel of the air mail is the 24-hour service from coast to coast established April 20. It is a product of government aid of the most practical sort. It is certain that the air transport would have been regarded by fully 10 years by the withholding of subsidies, and there is every reason to believe that government ownership would not have maintained the present pace.

Business will profit handsomely from 24-hour trans-continental mail and express deliveries. But how will the railroads and railway express meet this new competition? Nor is it good news to the telegraph companies, which must take into account the quickening air mail.

Why don't you go to work then?" Joan asked, critically.

He grinned uncomfortably. "I suppose the real reason," he admitted, "is that I'm a hopelessly restless wanderer. I can't bear the idea of being tied down to office work. I've had spurts of ambition every now and then and have called on some of my friends with the idea of asking for a job. They sit behind big polished desks, their feet ankle-deep in Oriental carpets, selling bonds to their friends or trying to think up some reason why someone should buy a certain brand of croup medicine or hair tonic. They worry about their golf games and their increasing weight and the cost of fuel oil for their yachts."

"I try to get their minds off their troubles by taking them to the club for lunch but they eat too much, smoke too many oily cigars and talk too much business. So my ambition trickles out of me. Just before they have mentally calculated how many of my friends I could sell bonds to, or get advertising accounts from, I invite them for an airplane ride and escape while they're thinking up their aloos. It's all very depressing."

"What would you do with a place like this if you bought it?" asked Sally, thoughtfully.

"I'd buy Mueller's place or run him out of the State," he replied promptly. "If he didn't want to sell, I'd make life so unpleasant for him that he'd give up fruit growing and take to deep-sea fishing for a living. Then I'd hire plenty of labor, turn them loose here and see if I couldn't make a good healthy profit on those groves. It's beautiful here and I'd like to own this old house. I know you want to sell it and I'm willing to meet your price. What do you say?"

"It's wonderful of you to think of it, Dave," said Joan, softly, "but I'm afraid it wouldn't do."

"Joan, you're perfectly crazy!" wailed Sally. "You are so obstinate! We'll both be too old for dancing and gaiety and parties before you ever find anyone who'll buy this old run-down place. It isn't fair of you to make us both spend the best years of our lives grubbing in these groves like niggers! Please, Joan!"

"Oh, Sally," sighed Joan, wearily "why do we have to go all over to study free to go north whenever you want to, and that I'll give you every bit of money I can scrape up to do it with. But it won't be enough to last you but a week or two when you get there. You'll have to take a position right away—any position. If we can stick it out here until we can get a fair price for the groves, we won't be fixed so badly. We'll be able to take time to find the right thing. We might even have enough to start a tea room or something. And, besides," she added, with a challenge in her voice, "I love this place too well to give it away! If I could hold on to it, I'd never sell it."

"I know it," retorted Sally, "and that's why you're holding on to it with a price that'll allow you to keep it forever!"

Dave, smoking uneasily, thought it best to change the subject. Joan's tired voice made him ache for her, for this level-eyed girl who was doing the best she knew how. With the jungle always waiting to sweep over her groves and Mueller stalking around, a shotgun in the crook of his arm—

"Mysterious Actions

"How long has this Mueller person been hanging around here?" he asked.

"About five months," replied Joan, a note of relief in her clear, contralto voice. "He bought up the adjoining place, about a thousand acres, at a mortgage foreclosure sale. Then he went north for a while and came down again in half a dozen expensive cars with New York license plates, bringing twelve or fourteen tough-looking men with him. He hired all the negro labor he could find and leveled out that landing field. Then a plane began to fly around. A few of our neighbors came from miles away to welcome him into the community, but they were driven off by the men, who said that Mueller didn't receive visitors."

"When did he start to bother you?"

"Soon after he came. We met Mueller and that big Italian when we were working on our trees near their property line. We didn't like the way they looked at us, so we came away. They called on us that same night. Mueller called Hannah a liar when she said we weren't at home and tried to see her a ten-dollar tip to let him in. Next time we happened to meet him he warned us that if we weren't nice to him we'd be sorry. Our Ford went out of commission. Our sprayer broke down. We found some of our trees girdled. Just one thing after another."

"Does he still try to call upon you?"

"Oh, no," said Joan. "He told us a couple of months ago that whenever we'd like to have him come, we had only to send word."

"And that would mean, of course," ventured Dave, "that accidents would cease happening to your property."

"I suppose so," agreed Joan. (To Be Continued Tomorrow)

TO THOSE WHO HAVE ENTERED: What are you doing to insure yourself of one of the really BIG Gold Prizes in this distribution? Are you doing YOUR part—or are you sitting back and hoping your friends will do it all? Up to now the majority of the votes that most of the candidates have received have been cast by subscribers who have been coming into the office in the regular course of business, paying up their subscriptions, and casting their votes to the credit of some one of the nominees. This should not be the case where the value of all prizes is considered. Every candidate should be doing his or her utmost toward making THEIR prize as big as possible. If your friends see that you are doing YOUR part, they will jump in and help you pile up a winning vote total; if, however, they see you are unappreciative and are expecting your friends to do it all, they will throw their support elsewhere. It's up to you, candidates. DO YOUR PART — your friends will do theirs.

TO THOSE WHO HAVE NOT ENTERED: To you who are still considering the Free Gold Gift Distribution, RIGHT NOW is the time to send in your name and make your start. You never had—nor ever will have—such an opportunity for making BIG MONEY quickly WITHOUT INVESTMENT OR RISK as you have in this $10,000 Gold Gift Distribution. Clip out that nomination coupon; see that it reaches the Campaign Department immediately. YOU ARE GOING TO REGRET IT IF YOU DON'T. Remember this statement. And ACT NOW!

Campaign Office Open From 9 a. m. to 8 p. m.

Candidates' Banner Week Draws to Close Monday

yet entered in this generous campaign. Right now one may enter and by a little determined effort in spare moments can appear in the list next Tuesday as a real contender for any of the rich prizes.

One thing that is certain in regard to the campaign is the fact that there are scores and scores of people who have the feeling that they are capable of acquiring one of the gifts, but seem to lack that final little urge to actually enter and start on the road that can now easily place them in possession of a big bag of gold.

Worthy Prize List

In the selection of the gold awards, The Courier feels that it has been more than generous in their value and has offered awards that are well worth the attention and effort of the most fastidious. The Courier's $10,000 gold gift campaign is a genuine opportunity for real profit on time that can be found if one makes up his mind to give it. Right now there are prizes, big prizes, going begging for lack of the proper number of really interested participants.

Make this week a real "Banner Week" by getting in if you are not in and by proving your real intentions to yourself and your friends if you are in.

Advice to Girls By NANCY LEE

DEAR NANCY LEE: My girl friend and I met two fellows at a dance. We made a date and arrived fifteen minutes later than the appointed hour, and the fellows weren't to be seen. In the meanwhile they called up, but we were not at home. I never heard from them again. We would like to keep their friendship.

BLACK AND WHITE. Dear, dear! The young gentlemen didn't give you many minutes grace, I wonder whether they are always so very punctual? Mind you, I am holding no brief for the habitual late-comer, but it is possible once in a while for even the most punctual person to be late. And when they called up they were surely informed that you had already left. When next you see them just be pleasant and cordial. Tell them that you were most surprised that they were not there even if you did arrive fifteen minutes late, and don't be too anxious to make another appointment, even if they do decide to let you have another chance.

Betray a Confidence? Reporter Prefers Jail

Holding a Trust Sacred Is All Part of the Game, Says
Winifred Black, Writing with Pride of the Newspaperman Who Was Jailed for Refusing to Tell.

By WINIFRED BLACK

THEY'VE put the reporter in jail, because he won't tell who told him the name of a certain man.

And the reporter says, all right he'll stay in jail, but he'll tell the rest of his natural life, but he will never tell that name.

Hands across the continent, brother, you're made of the right stuff.

And every newspaper man in the world is proud to claim you as kin.

I don't know whether you're old or young, handsome, or ugly, or clever, or just a little dull, but you're a newspaper man—a real one.

And that's what I call being somewhere close to the top of things.

The newspaper man, we're always hearing about him at dinner tables, and seeing him on the stage, and looking at him in the moving pictures, and, dear me, what a cad, and a bounder, and a drunken loafer, he is always made out to be.

Heartless, soulless, cruel, avaricious, dishonest, shifty, tricky, an outcast. Something to make honest dogs bark and turn honest men with disgust.

I'm getting a little tired of it myself, to tell the truth.

I've known newspaper men and newspapermen all my life, and I never knew but one to betray his paper, and I have known but two or three who could not be trusted to the death with the secret of any man, woman or child who confided in them.

The man who betrayed his paper was a missionary, who didn't make much of a success at foreign missions, so he came home and started to reform the Press. He began by selling out his own paper for a new suit of clothes and a ticket for a trip to New York.

I have known great lawyers to tell newspapermen the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, about the inside facts of a much discussed case, and every one of these men would have died before he would tell one word that he had promised not to tell.

And the affair wasn't his affair at all, it did not concern his mother, or his wife or his daughter, or his bank account, or even his job.

It concerned the lawyer, but the lawyer trusted the newspaperman, and newspapermen do not betray a trust.

I don't know why they don't—but they don't.

They could make money by it, they could make easy popularity by it—for a while, they could crowd into some temporary position of power by it, but, somehow or other, it isn't being done—in newspaper circles.

Not in the real First Families, and it never has been done, either.

And all this fudge and nonsense about the tricky, shifty, evasive newspaperman is just fudge and nonsense—that's all.

If a man will lie and cringe to a stranger, he will lie and cringe to his editor, and his editor has brains enough to know that, and pick his men accordingly.

Nobody writes any poems or sings any songs about the newspaperman. But I have seen rather commonplace, uninteresting types of men turn into heroes and martyrs without a word of commendation or even a look of approval—just because they were newspapermen, and held true to the courageous and honest standards of what is in the long run a courageous and honest profession.

Greetings, brother. I hope they don't keep you in jail long, but, anyhow, the heart and the pride of the newspaper game is right there with you, in your cell.

And, if you're a real newspaperman, that fact will be meat and drink and fresh air and freedom to you.

NASH

93% of all aviation motors
in National Aircraft Show
... were Twin Ignition!

At the National Aircraft Show just held in Detroit, all but two of the aircraft were powered by motors with Twin Ignition (2 spark plugs per cylinder instead of one).

Nash, pioneer of progress in motor car design, brings the advantages of Twin Ignition to you. Both the Nash Eight-90 and the Nash Eight-80 have this superior type of power.

The Nash Twin-Ignition motor, with two simultaneous explosions per cylinder instead of one, burns the gasoline more speedily, more completely, more smoothly, more efficiently!

By actual engineering test of the same motor with Twin and single ignition, Twin Ignition produced 22% more horsepower, 5 miles per hour more top speed, and 2 extra miles of travel from a gallon of gasoline!

Of course you can get along without Twin Ignition, but these cars—priced remarkably low—prove you don't get along so well!

Get the facts! Phone us—a Nash demonstrator will be sent to your door.

TWILIGHT LEAGUE TO OPEN SEASON MAY 11

By T. M. Juno

The Bristol Twilight League will open on May 11. This was decided at the first meeting of the circuit held last night in the office of D. Landreth Seed Company. On the opening night, St. Ann's will meet the Independents.

At the meeting it was announced that the Croydon Boys' Club had withdrawn from the league and its place was filled in by the Harriman Field Club. The Bristol Sons of Italy also expressed desire to enter the league and they will be given first choice should any vacancy occur.

The same officers of last year were reelected as follows:

President, David Landreth; vice-president, Thomas Juno; secretary and treasurer, Francis Ellis.

The managers of all teams were notified that the contracts signed by the players must be in the league officials' hands by May 8.

John Elmer and Joseph Riola were named official umpires with Elmer White as an alternate.

The Rules Committee, with J. Mulholland, Neil McDevitt and Larry David, was asked to draw up the rules for the coming season. Francis Ellis was appointed to draw up a schedule.

The following teams were represented: Emilie, Warren Bruce; St. Ann's, John Field; A. O. H., Neil McDevitt and James Dolan; Federals, John Mulholland; Harriman, Larry David; and Independents, Rocco Genco and Peter Accardi.

MIKE McNALLY WATCHES
FOR THE LOOP PENNANT

(This is one of a series of pre-season stories on clubs in the New York-Pennsylvania baseball league.)

By Gene Myers

I. N. S. Sports Writer

HARRISBURG, Apr. 24.—(INS)—Two-time banner holder of the New York-Pennsylvania league, Mike McNally, mentor of the Wilkes-Barre Barons, is eyeing with expectance and confidence the loop pennant as he works his squad of 29 men at Artillery Park.

Twice in the past, clubs led by the Wilkes-Barre manager have captured the flag. In 1929 it was the Binghamton Triplets, and last year the Barons copped the streamer to give McNally his second top-rung aggregation.

Behind him this year in the pennant race, McNally has unified support and a team which, from pre-season indications, stands well above the rest of the circuit. Of the 29 members of the Barons squad, 14 are veterans. The hurling corps is undoubtedly one of the best in the league, and outfield and infield are capably manned.

Alignment of posts for the season is about completed and the squad as now constituted is expected to go through the season with few changes.

In the outfield, Herb Rauding, who came from Topeka, Jake Plummer with Binghamton last year, and Ken Hogan, former Erie star, are expected to hold down the regular berths.

The Barons infield, as it will go through the season, is pretty well shaped up. Pat Wright, formerly with Erie and leading batter of the Central League last season, will hold down first. Benny Borgman, released from Harrisburg, at the close of last season, will be at second and Hap Briscoe at short. For third, four candidates are being considered with Bill Usatt apparently best to get the call. Tommy McCarthy, first string backstop of the Barons last season, will handle the work behind the plate again this season with the aid of Benny Freedman, of Carrollton.

Dick Barrett, holdover hurler, will lead the mound staff. In last year's campaign, Barrett won 13 and lost 12 games but McNally figures he is due for a better season this year. Dutch Elssler, who came in from the Nebraska State League, Bob Pollinger, Duke Sedgwick and Fred Douglass, all three from New England, are expected to land mound berths and form the nucleus of what McNally thinks will be "the best pitching staff in the league."

Whether Elmer Knetzer, who obtained his release from Binghamton, will remain with the Barons is as yet undecided, but the dope indicates he will remain with Wilkes-Barre and give added support to the Barons mound staff.

EMILIE

A reception for the new pastor and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. Sanders, was held at the Emilie M. E. Church on Wednesday, April 15th.

Penn's Glowing Hopes

By HARDIN BURNLEY

ON the eve of the historic Penn Relays (April 24-25), thoughts of athletic-minded Americans naturally turn to Barney Berlinger, long acclaimed as "the one-man track team" of the Blue and Red. Last year he was the chief illumination at this blue ribbon eastern classic which is an annual feature at the Penn Stadium in Philadelphia. Barney won the decathlon with a score of 740 points. This year, he is expected to repeat, his victorious form at the recent I. C. 4-A games at New York indicating that Barney's better than ever. On that occasion he achieved 27 1/2 points, breaking the former intercollegiate record of 25 made by Sol "Happy" Farth of N. Y. U.

The versatile Berlinger is especially skilled at the 16-pound shot put, pole vault, running high jump and broad jumps. He's been a remarkable all-round athlete ever since he went out for track at Penn Charter and Mercersburg Academy in his prep school days. And—the end is not yet.

In addition, Coach Lawson Robertson has other great stars who should just about win the Relays championships for old Penn. There's Carl Coan, outstanding mile sensation on the Winter indoor tracks, who did 4:15.2 in winning that I. C. 4-A event. Fred Steiner, a remarkable 35-pound shot putter; and a crack 1-mile relay team—Jack Edwards, Horace Steel, Jimmy Healy and Bill Carr—of championship calibre.

Bright as Penn's prospects are for Relays honors, the fondest hopes of most Blue and Red admirers are centered in the varsity eight which Coach "Rusty" Callow is developing on the Schuylkill River. Last year's freshman crew was a dandy, and five or six of its members will be in the main raceboat this year. They'll row Columbia, Yale, Harvard, Navy and Princeton before the supreme effort comes at Poughkeepsie on June 16.

Penn hasn't won the varsity event on the Hudson since 1901 and it's seven years since the junior and freshman eights scored there. Penn's about due and—so is "Rusty" Callow if he's to keep on coaching crews there!
